(1990-2011) TMI Focus
HEMI-LYNC Compilations

Hemi-Lync: Making Global Connections was a bulletin board that appeared regularly in the TMI Focus from 1992-2007. It was designed to connect readers with people, events, and publications around the world that had something to share about Hemi-Sync and The Monroe Institute.

Academia (1997-2)
On November 7, 1996, Stefan Kasian, AB, 1994 TMI summer intern, and Larry Burk, MD, associate professor of radiology, made a joint presentation about "Hemi-Sync Technology" at the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, North Carolina, as part of a second-semester course, Stress Management and Performance Enhancement. One of twenty-six segments, Hemi-Sync went to the head of the class on student evaluations with a score of 4.9 (5 = extremely valuable). Comments included: "Perhaps the best— definitely the one I'm most interested in. The idea of Hemi-Sync is incredible"; "use it all the time; and "I listen to the tapes before games and they get me very focused.: Dr. Burk and Stefan will introduce a new group of students to Hemi-Sync on February 27.

Academia (1997-3)
On February 27, 1997, the "Hemi-Sync Technology" and Stefan Kasian, AB – GATEWAY graduate and former TMI summer intern – returned for an encore as part of the Stress Management and Performance Enhancement course at Duke University in Durham, North Carolina. Larry Burk, MD, associate professor of radiology, originated the course concept. Through the joint efforts of Dr. Burk and Stefan, twenty students each semester have an opportunity to experience HemiSync directly.
